Opens 'Great New Era'

Poe Lock Flooded At Sault Dedication

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Proclaiming the start of a "great new era of development," Robert E. Jordan III, special assistant to the Secretary of the Army, today dedicated the largest lock on the St. Lawrence Seaway system.

He pressed the button and 22 million gallons of cold Lake Superior water rushed into the $40 million Poe Lock, climaxing a mammoth construction project begun in 1961.

The U.S. Steel Corp.'s Great Lakes flagship, the Philip R. Clarke, rose 21 feet from its Lake Huron level. The lock gates, weighing 145 tons each, opened and the ship crept toward the Lake Superior shores to take on a heavy load of iron ore.

Spectators

For the first time since 1941, spectators were allowed on the well-groomed jut of land between the locks at Sault Ste. Marie to watch the ceremonies.

Only plump seagulls, intent upon spying the silvery flashes meaning that smelt was being churned from the depths by the ship's propellers, ignored the ceremonies.

Jordan presided at the ceremonies on Administration Island. Others scheduled to appear on the speaker's platform were Michigan Gov. William Milliken, U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R - Mich., U.S. Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, and L.E. Beland of Ottawa, secretary of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

The ceremonies were held in conjunction with the Seaway's tenth anniversary.

This afternoon U.S. Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe was scheduled to address 1,000 guests.

The new lock will allow giant ships to haul minerals and grains from the upper Midwest area to the lower lakes.

Rebuild Seaway

The Sault Ste. Marie Evening News noted in an editorial that the gigantic lock "means that the entire St. Lawrence Seaway system of locks will have to be one day rebuilt to allow greater flexibility of this nation's and the world's commerce."

"It means that channels in the Great Lakes system will have to be deepened and turns widened to handle bigger and faster boats," the paper said.

The public has been restricted for security purposes from the inner lock areas since World War II. However, special observation platforms have been built since then for them to observe the lowerings and raisings of some 50 freighters a day.

Mack's 'Giveaway' Killed; Suggest New 'Swamp Tax'

Demo Leaders Call For Early Surtax Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic House chiefs have decided to call for a vote on President Nixon's surtax extension Monday—a week or more earlier than expected—after receiving assurances Republican members have closed ranks behind the plan.

The House will take up Friday an emergency measure to extend present withholding rates through July 31. Otherwise, they would drop to presurtax rates at midnight Monday when the original 10 per cent income tax surcharge expires.

Even if the House passes the surtax Monday, the Senate still must act in committee and on the floor, so there is no chance of enactment by the midnight June 30 deadline.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said about 170 Republican votes for surtax extension are in sight after Nixon appealed for votes at a Republican conference Wednesday.

This would mean only about 50 of the 245 Democrats would have to vote favorably to pass the measure. Some Republicans suggested, however, that Ford's count may be optimistic.

After headcounts showed substantial lack of firm Democratic support, leaders had postponed a vote scheduled for Wednesday. Ford's report, however, caused them to reconsider plans to let the surtax lie over until after the July 4 holiday.

Mental Illness Up 150% In Kids

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An expert in the field says mental illness among U.S. children has jumped 150 per cent in the last 10 years, pointing up an urgent need for action by the President and Congress.

Michael Gorman, executive director of the National Committee Against Mental Illness, said the nation has at least four million emotionally disturbed children.

He told a meeting sponsored by the city Health Department Wednesday at least a fourth of the mentally ailing children need treatment. But, Gorman said, 15 states have no facilities, public or private, for treating mentally troubled juveniles and another 24 states have no public institutions to take in children from low- and middle-income groups.

He said two-thirds of all afflicted youngsters "are quite literally lost, bounced around from training schools to reformatories, to jails, and whipped through all kinds of understaffed agencies until they vanish."

Gorman previewed a report prepared by the Joint Commission on Mental Health of Children, representing 53 national organizations, for presentation soon to Congress.

A study showed that admission of teen-agers to state hospitals has risen one and a half times in the last decade, he said.

Once in these "massive warehouses for the mentally ill, so understaffed they have few professionals trained in child psychiatry," one of every four of the youngsters can "anticipate being permanently hospitalized for the next 50 years of their lives," Gorman declared.

Sen. Anthony C. Beilensen, a Beverly Hills Democrat, said he thought his measure had a "decent" chance of becoming law after its passage in the Senate Wednesday, 28 to 7.

The bill now goes to the state Assembly and if approved there to Gov. Ronald Reagan for his signature.

Question Sharp Decline In N. Viet Infiltrations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State and Defense departments are trying to determine what consequences a reported sharp cutback in the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam might have on the course of the war.

The infiltration rate declined several weeks ago, according to intelligence reports, and has been running at a relatively low level since.

Some authorities believe bad weather along the jungle trails in North Vietnam and Laos probably caused the decline. Others think a heavy drain on North Vietnam's draft-age manpower in past years may be responsible.

Political Move

If the cutback is intended by Hanoi as a political move toward de-escalating the war, officials indicate they have no evidence so far that this is happening.

In fact, U.S. officials say privately they have no evidence of any intention by North Vietnam to scale down the war and they are still predicting another enemy offensive in South Vietnam later this summer.

President Nixon announced June 8 he had ordered withdrawal of 25,000 American troops from South Vietnam by the end of August. At his news conference last Thursday he said there had been no Hanoi response to requests for North Vietnam to reciprocate.

10,000 Per Month

North Vietnamese infiltration was estimated by U.S. authorities earlier this year to be running in excess of 10,000 men a month—a rate judged here to be necessary to replace casualties and keep North Vietnamese forces in the South at a level of about 100,000 men.

Enemy losses have been estimated at upward of 10,000 a month.

To compensate for a decline in replacements caused by a substantially lower infiltration rate over a long period of time, the enemy military command would have to reduce the level of combat and thus cut casualties. But officials say they have no indication this is happening.

Europe To Get New Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army soon will send a faster firing, quicker moving version of its 400-mile range Pershing missile to Europe to replace tactical aircraft in the nuclear defense of NATO.

The improved Pershing system is mounted on wheels so it can change position faster than the older model, which moves on tank-like treads, making the new version unit less vulnerable.

The Pershing 1A's faster rate of fire and greater mobility are vital to its newest job on what is called "quick reaction alert."

In this role the Pershing missile will replace war planes on nuclear alert, freeing more tactical fighter-bombers for conventional warfare roles.

Originally, the Pershing was sent to Europe five years ago to provide heavy atomic artillery support for the U.S. 7th Army deployed in West Germany facing the Iron Curtain.

The Army will begin shipping the missile to Europe later this year where it will be swapped, unit by unit, for the older version without leaving any gap in NATO's nuclear shield.

While the basic missile is not changed, virtually all of its supporting equipment has been updated.

Young Man Guards Capitol

LANSING (AP) — Lansing police were called to the State Capitol Wednesday when a teenager was spotted marching outside, "guarding" the building.

"He was walking his post in a very military manner, doing an about face at the end of each march," said building superintendent Pat O'Berry.

"I asked him what he was doing and he said — 'Just guarding.' It looked like abnormal behavior so I called Lansing police. This is the seat of government, so we watch it very closely."

O'Berry said the young man disappeared before Lansing police arrived within three minutes of his call.

Extra 45-Cents Per Acre For Local Districts

LANSING (AP) — Prompt action by the House Taxation Committee, at the request of the Natural Resources Department, has averted a threatened legislative "giveaway" of state parks and recreation lands.

And the Upper Peninsula state senator who introduced the bill responsible for the cloudburst controversy says he was only trying to raise "an equitable amount of tax" for the peninsula.

The House committed Wednesday drafted amendments to delete provisions of a bill that would require the Natural Resources Department to catalogue some 3.3 million acres of parks and forests, determine their worth and offer them for sale.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Joseph Mack, D - Ironwood, got the recommendation of two Senate committees and received a 29-4, upper chamber approval before its implications were realized.

Hold Lands

In reviewing the measure, the Senate did include provision a 45-cent-per-acre tax to be paid, by the department proportionately to area school districts, township and counties surrounding the lands.

Payment of the tax would allow the department to continue to hold the lands.

In addition, the committee drafted an amendment which, if adopted by the House, would delay the bill's effect until Jan. 1, 1971.

"This bill has been, you might say, perfected," commented Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the House committee.

"Joe Mack has the 45-cent-an-acre tax under his arm, and Dr. Ralph A. MacMullan (Natural Resources Department Director) still has the say on what lands are sold," Montgomery said.

Additional 45 Cents

The 45-cent acreage tax would supplement a 20-cents per acre "swamp tax" now paid by the state to local units and school districts for lands taken over because of tax defaults by private owners.

Upper Peninsula legislators, including Mack, long have contended the state pays a disproportionately small reimbursement to the area, since retail value of the forested areas could almost amount to as much as $12 billion.

"I honestly think he (Mack) didn't mean for us to sell all our land," MacMullan said Wednesday after meeting with the House committee. "He has a good point, we have no objection to the tax."

"Joe enjoys himself a great deal," MacMullan said.

Observers noted Mack often in the past has crossed swords with MacMullan and the Natural Resources Commission over such controversial policies as allowing an antlerless deer-hunting season in the Upper Peninsula.

School Revenues

Montgomery recalled the so-called "swamp tax," paid by the state on unclaimed lands, has risen only 10 cents since it was adopted.

"The main thing Joe was after was the approximately $1 million in added revenue to the local units and school districts," said Montgomery.

The bill now faces further review by the House Appropriations Committee. "I don't think he'll get all the way home with that 65 cents an acre," Montgomery predicted.

Two Upper Peninsula legislators, Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, and Dominic J. Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, are on that committee, however.

Gain 30 Cents An Hour: City, Electrical Workers Agree On Wage Boost

The City of Escanaba and Local 979, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union, AFL-CIO, have reached an agreement that will provide for a 30 cents an hour wage boost beginning July 1.

The agreement, basis for a contract which has yet to be written, was arrived at in a bargaining session in the City Hall on Wednesday, and approved by the union last evening.

The increase of 30 cents an hour raises the wage scale of the city equal to that paid electricians by the Upper Peninsula Power Co.

Present for the session were: Walter Quillico, Iron Mountain, mediator, Michigan Labor Mediation Board.

Frank Kildau, Ypsilanti, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Robert Saykily, Escanaba, local business agent of the union; and a delegation of city electrical department employees.

City Manager George M. Harvey, administrative Assistant Howard Smale, and Electrical Department Superintendent William VanEffen of the city.

In substance the agreement is that recommended to the union and the city by a fact finder of the Labor Mediation Board, Dr. William E. Barstow Jr., Michigan Technological University, Houghton.

The 30 cent wage boost per hour for all linemen brings the city into full equality with the U.P. Power Co. scale. Some modifications in increment steps for city employees are still being negotiated.

Journemen linemen will receive $3.92 per hour with the pay increase, up from $3.62 per hour.

Cost in total for the wage increase for the electrical department will be about $6,500 in the coming fiscal year to the city.

There are 11 employees in the electrical department. Five are journeymen linemen, one is an equipment operator, three are foremen and two are apprentice linemen.

The union and the city had reached a bargaining impasse when fact finding was asked, followed by resumption of negotiations and agreement on Wednesday.

The contract will be fully written and will spell out all of elements of wages, hours and working conditions.

The fringe benefits to be incorporated in the contract are similar to those applying to other city departments.

Powell Singing 'Oh Happy Day'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell's favorite song these days is the rousing gospel tune "Oh Happy Day."

He leaned back in his chair in his congressional office Wednesday and sang a bit of it. "Oh Happy Day! Jesus washed my sins away."

It was his first visit to the House since the Supreme Court ruled last week he never should have been excluded from the 90th Congress, and he was in an exalted mood.

"I'm on cloud nine," he said. "My lawyers are on cloud nine. If they ever come down we'll decide what to do next."

What Powell might do next has House leaders on edge. They don't like to imagine the consequences if he presses for back pay or restoration of his congressional seniority and the prerogatives that go with it.

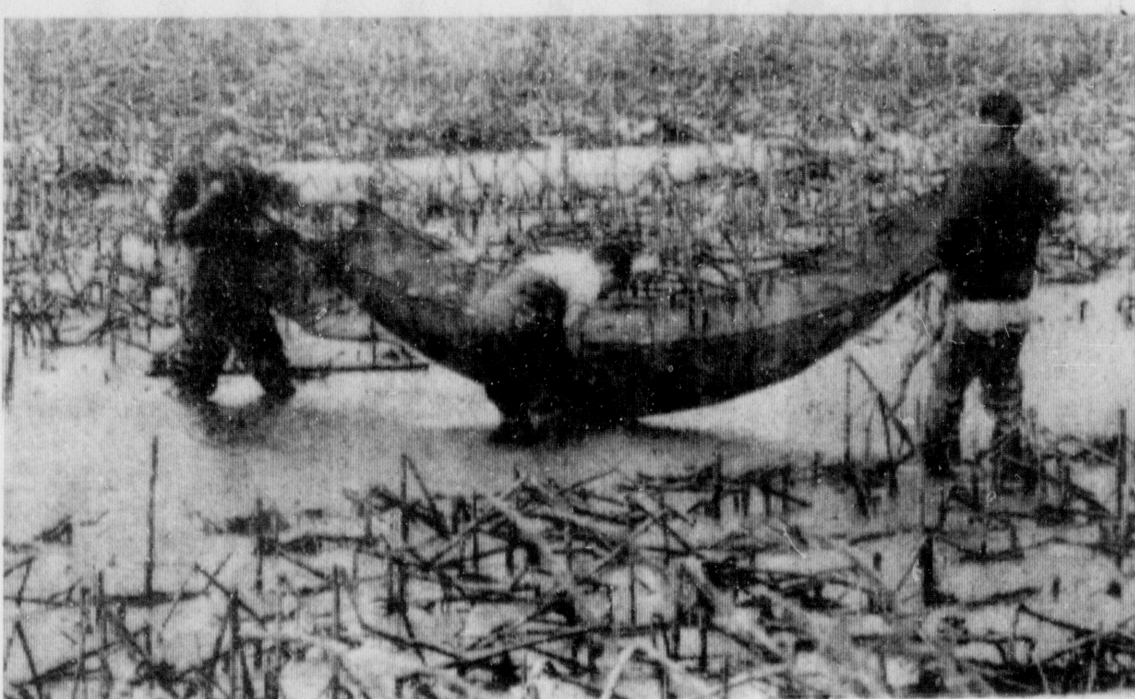

The pay issue will have to be settled by the courts if Powell decides to pursue it. He regards the seniority question as already settled.

"That's what the Supreme Court decision meant," he said. "The seniority chain that was broken when the one link of the 90th Congress was taken out has been restored by the court."

If the House leaders accepted Powell's interpretation they would have to deal with the problem of his lost chairmanship of the Education and Labor Committee. There is little chance of his getting it back, but to deny it to him if he is actually the senior member is to question the sanctity of the seniority system.

For the moment, however, these matters are of no great concern to Powell.

"The landmark decision of the court is the real victory," he said. "The rest is inconsequential. The history books may try to make me out a scoundrel but they'll have to put this in too."

Bidders Silent At Wood Auction

No bids were received Tuesday when the U. S. Forest Service offered almost 500,000 cords of wood on the Hiawatha National Forest in its Borealis timber sale.

The sale was requested by large wood-using industries as a federal government commitment to a long range, large volume cutting program to encourage industries in this region.

The wood offered was surplus to that which is now being produced and sold by the Forest.

According to the Forest Service, if this timber had been sold on Tuesday it would have provided jobs for 600 full time workers.

"Setbacks like this are to be expected," said Alfred H. Trout, forest supervisor. "However, we are not going to abandon efforts to strengthen our local economy by drawing new industry into the area," he added.

Trout stated that timber from this sale would have generated at least $18,000 in additional revenue each year to be distributed to the five counties within the National Forest through the 25 per cent return fund.

This would have been a 30 per cent increase in the return to counties on an annual basis.

Companies present at Tuesday's offering were the Mead Corporation, U. S. Plywood Co., Sawyer-Stoll Timber Co., and the Ironwood Timber and Development Co.

Forest Service officials are examining possible alternatives to the Borealis Sale.

Species offered in the sale were: Aspen, paper birch and balsam of gilead, 253,000 cords; mixed hardwoods, 97,000 cords; Balsam Fir, 64,000 cords; Spruce and Tamarack, 36,000 cords; Hemlock, 18,000 cords; Pine, 13,000 cords; Yellow Birch 4,200 MBM; and mixed hardwoods, 5,300 MBM.

Summer School Extension OK'd

The State Department of Education has informed the Escanaba Area Public Schools of an extension of the Section 3 Program for the Washington School. This summer Section 3 program is for the express purpose of providing further inservice training for the Washington School staff by providing children for them to work with in a laboratory situation. This will provide an additional 3 weeks of instruction for about 30 students, involving 3 teachers and 1 administrator. The funds for this project are part of a special allocation the State has made to certain qualifying Schools and is not a part of the regular budget.

"Most children have gaps in the areas of first hand experiences and have difficulty expressing themselves orally and in writing," said Vernon Ihlenfeldt, curriculum coordinator for Escanaba schools.

"To help students improve in these areas we are going to take a group of them on a series of one day seeing-and-doing experiences," Ihlenfeldt added.

He explained that these seeing-and-doing experiences will be followed by classroom activity in which the student will be asked to recall, organize, and report on their experience.

"We believe the nature of these experiences will provide a more conducive and interesting educational environment for these children than regular classroom work would provide," said Ihlenfeldt.

He explained that personnel from Conservation, Forestry, Agriculture and Industry will be contacted to act as resource people for the seeing-and-doing experiences. These resource experiences will be used to help plan the different activities with the teachers—who in turn will use this training in planning projected tours and follow-up classroom activity with the children.

Parents of children kindergarten through sixth grade in the Washington School Area only, who are interested in having their children take part in this project, should call Mr. Floyd Cassidy, Principal of the Washington School at 786-7993. Mr. Cassidy will be at the Washington School starting Monday, June 30th.

Operation Action Moves To Boost U.P. Tourism

SAULT STE. MARIE — Operation Action, meeting here in connection with the Poe Lock dedication, took a major step to assist tourism development of the Upper Peninsula by voting to work with other agencies to sponsor an October "fly-in" when investment-oriented persons can be shown some of the programs already under way and some of the opportunities for developing attractions based on historical backgrounds of a variety of areas within the U.P.

Operation Action will work with Upper Michigan Tourist Association, UPCAP and Michigan State University Extension people, as well as interested citizens from a variety of Peninsula communities.

Some years ago, a MSU study on guidelines for tourist development ended with these words: "When the Upper Peninsula makes greater use of its natural resources, raises the quality of its offerings, maintains a sensitivity to its unique interests and solidifies its approach, a revolution in tourism economy will take place."

To implement this principle, a committee of UMTA, UPCAP and MSU has been developing the plan which Operation Action endorsed last night.

Centered In Marquette

In October, it is hoped to attract several investment qualified people, as well as all of the Operation Action council available, plus representatives of other sponsoring agencies.

The conference will be centered in Marquette. While plans are open ended, at this date, to permit final decisions which will fit the largest number of schedules, it is expected the meeting will be held the second weekend in October.

Coming in on a Thursday afternoon, delegates will be given a broad picture of Upper Peninsula possibilities and a general program presented.

On Friday, there will be a series of area flights, the groups broken up into natural choices. One group will fly to Houghton, then to Gogebic County, fly over Iron County and back to Marquette by late afternoon, a second will fly to Escanaba and Menominee, and fly over Dickinson County and return in the afternoon; a third will fly over Tahquamenon, Pictured Rocks and to Soo, then fly over Mackinac Island, the U.S. 2 shoreline and back to Marquette. By motor, fourth will make the Marquette County circle for the Iron ore industry. At each stop they will be briefed by knowledgeable people on the developments within that particular area.

Friday evening the various groups will exchange their information and a closing session Saturday morning will determine some of the findings and conclusions of the visitors.

Appropriate Time

It is appropriate, officials said, that this is the time for such a meeting. In the past there has been a feeling, particularly outside the area, that the Peninsula had too great a feeling of dependency in its tourism efforts. The Soo depended upon the locks to bring in people, the Copper Country on Brockway Mountain and Fort Wilkins, Marquette on docks and the entire Peninsula on water, hills and woods to woo visitors.

But that spirit has changed and in the opinion of some observers, there is a great vitality within the area that has been shown in the development at the Soo, where Historic Sites, Valley Camp restoration and the ambitious Shrine of the Missionaries are already in business and planning extensions; in the Quincy Hoist renewal in the Copper Country and its view of lower Pewabic, which is a natural for restoration of an historic village; in Menominee with a marina park that will be one of the major attractions to the gateway of the Peninsula and in the development of ski areas in the Gogebic area, which are considered the finest in the Peninsula and are being completed on the basis of community involvement.

"There is a great viability within the Peninsula that is only recently making itself felt," observed James W. Gooch of the MSU extension center, who has been one of the leaders in committee planning for the October fly-in. "It is a magnificent commentary on the cooperative attitude and the understanding of our leaders that this joint sponsorship is being made possible."

Meets Principle

W. H. Treloar, Marquette, who made the presentation to Operation Action for the planning committee, pointed out the timeliness of such a program with the Soo developing such outstanding tourist attractions.

He also cited the fact that this area would raise the quality of offerings that the tourist would welcome; the great unique feature the Peninsula has — to an impressive degree over the other areas of the state — is its rich history that makes for natural restorations in a variety of places, and by bringing all groups together, the Peninsula would certainly solidify its approach to the tourism question.

FCC Ruling On CATV Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court upheld Monday the broad authority of the Federal Communications Commission to allow CATV to enter small television markets.

The court backed the FCC by turning down an appeal by operators of television stations in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo area.

They had tried to force the FCC to hold a hearing on their claims that entry of community antenna television CATV in their market could kill stations in their area.

The FCC said it was required to hold an evidentiary hearing only in the top 100 television markets. Colorado Springs-Pueblo ranks 138th.

The U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia supported the FCC in a 4-2 decision March 24. The appeal was made by operators of KRDO-TV, Colorado Springs, and KOAA-TV, Pueblo.

The Supreme Court's refusal to hear them lets the FCC decision stand.

The CATV system involved is Vumore Video Corporation of Colorado, Inc.

The FCC has permitted it to carry five Denver stations and three Colorado Springs-Pueblo stations in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo area. The Denver stations cannot be seen in Colorado Springs and Pueblo otherwise.

The appeal said that if the FCC followed its own current approach, Vumore would be limited to two Denver stations plus the three Colorado Springs-Pueblo stations.

The court was silent in rejecting the appeal.

In CATV systems, TV signals are picked up from the air by a master antenna and programs are sent by cable to subscribers' set for a fee.

Poison Threat

The summer season is here and it's the time of year for camping, automobile trips and charcoal cooking.

Be careful.

Those fumes you breathe could be fatal. Bernard D. Bloomfield, writing in "Michigan's Health," a publication of the Michigan Dept. of Public Health, warns that carbon monoxide fumes are killing at least 1,000 people a year in the United States at home, in cars, in motels, on buses, in cottages and camper trailers.

Even charcoal cooking can be dangerous, he says, particularly if on that rainy afternoon the grill is moved into a garage to finish the steaks.

"Poison gas is frowned upon as a weapon of war," Bloomfield says. "Yet, it is killing off American citizens in numbers which approach the 78,000 fighting men killed by chemical warfare in World War I and little has been done about it."

Bloomfield offered several examples of carbon monoxide deaths. Could it happen to you?

● An elderly Michigan couple vacationing at an Alabama motel died of carbon monoxide poisoning. A year later, another couple died in the same room. In both instances, the coroner indicated a gas heater was on.

● Three women, members of a religious sect, were found dead in a rented travel trailer. The trailer was almost new, but was equipped with a poorly-designed heater which the actual owners never had used. The women died after spending only one night in the trailer.

● A family of four died in a small Michigan cottage. Carbon monoxide was found to be developing in the combustion system of an old gas refrigerator. Although the combustion tube flame in such an appliance is small and gas consumption is low, enough carbon monoxide had been generated to kill the family in just one night.

● A senior citizens group borrowed a bus for a trip to a bird sanctuary. On the return trip, most of the 40 occupants became ill and were taken to a hospital. An elderly man who had passed out in the bus died of carbon monoxide poisoning 90 minutes after the bus reached the hospital.

● A middle-aged man failed to show up for work one day. An associate, disturbed because he could get no answer by telephone, asked State Police to investigate. Officers found the man lying dead on the kitchen floor next to a pail of soapy water, apparently intended for cleaning the bedroom floor where his wife had become violently ill during the night. Both died of carbon monoxide poisoning from a faulty furnace, which had pushed the fatal fumes into the warm air distribution system.

"Carbon monoxide is a poisonous gas which reacts chemically with the hemoglobin of the red blood cells," Bloomfield reports. "It has about 200 to 300 times more affinity for the hemoglobin in the blood than oxygen and when present in the air replaces oxygen for carboxyhemoglobin. Since hemoglobin is essentially an oxygen carrier in the circulatory system the body cells are deprived of life-sustaining oxygen, and illness and death result."

Bloomfield said the degree of poisoning is measured in terms of per cent of blood saturation, 70 to 80 per cent being lethal. If that figure seems high, consider that 5 to 15 per cent is characteristic in the blood of a two-pack per day cigarette smoker. A level of 10 to 20 per cent above normal saturation level produces headache and throbbing in the temples of most people.

The U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare reports that at least 1,000 persons die yearly from carbon monoxide poisoning. As many as 4,000 are seriously overcome.

Most of those deaths and illnesses could be prevented by simple precautions, such as proper maintenance and venting at home, watching exhaust systems on automobiles for leaks and by using "common sense" when traveling or camping.

When in doubt, get fresh air. "The carbon monoxide problem is not likely to become an unimportant and dated relic of the space age in our time or for future generations," Bloomfield said. "It is apt to become more serious merely because of population growth and the fantastic consumption of fuel that accompanies such growth. More cars, more homes, more appliances and more people doing more things serve to compound the problem."

The killer gas makes no age or social distinctions, he emphasizes.

Why take chances?

Peninsula Potpourri

Irrked by complaints from tourists that Newberry is not clean, the Newberry Chamber of Commerce prevailed on the fire department to hose down Newberry Ave. The Chamber also suggested that merchants and residents do a better job of sweeping sidewalks and keeping their property clean.

Upper Michigan's last operating steam train — the Keweenaw Central at Calumet — has started its annual summer schedule with three runs daily. The hand-fired locomotive was built in 1907 by American Locomotive Co. and was used for many years by Copper Range Railroad of Houghton.

Alger County residents will have ambulance service for the rest of the year, after all. Richard Hallifax of Bowerman-Hallifax Funeral Home, who had notified the Board of Supervisors he planned to discontinue the service Aug. 15, agreed to continue the service through Dec. 31 after the board increased subsidy to the service by $4,800, giving Hallifax a total of $8,000 for the remaining six months of 1969. He said he would need about $20,000 to continue ambulance service next year. A plan to levy a half mill tax county-wide for ambulance service will be put to the voters later this year, the board indicated.

'Equal Protection' Is Mirage In U.S.

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

It's hard to keep up with what passes for reason in this benighted year of 1969.

The Constitution guarantees equal protection of the laws. But the whole field of taxation is a mishmash of special exemptions for special people; even the progressive income tax is a denial of equal protection.

In the South, school districts are told to integrate lest they be deprived of federal money; at Antioch College in the North, an exception is made for black students who wish to exclude whites from specified courses.

Court rulings have recently compelled northern states to abolish their residency requirements for relief, the idea being that residency clauses deny equal protection to new refugees from regions where public assistance is kept at a pittance. This interpretation of the law overrides the old Brandeis-Frankfurter theory that the states are entitled to make their own decisions in social legislation. There are residency requirements when it comes to voting; why not, then, when it is a matter of relief?

Interstate commerce is one area in which the states are constitutionally forbidden to engage in favoritism. Yet strange things happen here.

In Connecticut, the state whose judges led the way in declaring that relief payments could not be based on terms of residency, a sales tax deduction on a car trade-in is allowed only when the seller is registered in the state. Colorado permits a sales tax deduction only on proof that the car is being resold locally.

Is this sort of favoritism consonant with providing equal protection to car owners, let alone the question of applying the interstate commerce clause to trade-ins of a product whose components come from just about everywhere in the U. S.?

Several states including North Carolina, Florida, and Kansas tax products originating outside their boundaries, but exempt the same products if they are made at home. The Georgia Legislature has passed enabling legislation that permits communities and counties to use tax incentives to build up local economies. This is all to the good provided the incentives are granted on a non-discriminatory basis.

But in Georgia domestic wine is taxed at 20 cents a gallon where local importers of wines from New York and California have to pass along a dollar-a-gallon tax to the customer. The tax rises to two dollars a gallon for out-of-state wines that have a high alcoholic content. High-alcohol Georgia wines, however, get off with a fifty cent tax.

Our Federal Constitution, of course, forbids the levy of state duties on imports from other states. This is not taken anywhere to mean that a state can't tax such things as liquor and tobacco in order to raise revenues to pay its bills. But doesn't a tax on out-of-state wine clearly become an "import duty" when an in-state wine is exempted from an identical penalty? And how come that a New York magazine pays a sales tax in Arkansas where a locally published magazine does not?

The same U. S. Supreme Court that has decided that residency requirements for relief are an infringement of the idea of equal protection permits what Representative Emanuel Celler of New York calls the "Balkanization of the U. S. economy."

In 1959 the Court actually decided that a company could be compelled to pay a state income tax even though it was engaged exclusively in interstate commerce within the taxing state. Congress quickly moved to adopt a law prohibiting the levying of state income taxes on companies whose activities inside a state are limited to soliciting orders through salesmen or selling locally through independent contractors.

Law and logic are, of course, two separate categories. But if "equal protection" is to be extended to applicants for relief in the complete absence of any constitutional statement bearing on State welfare, it would seem that equal protection should be accorded in the field of interstate commerce, where the federal law has actually guaranteed it ever since we have had a republic. Both Europe and Central America have their "common markets"; why not the 50 states of the U. S.?

Knows Nothing Of Coed Killings

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Another round of lie-detector tests showed Wednesday that Ernest Paul Sims "knows nothing about any killing in Michigan," police said.

Sims, 26, an inmate in the Metropolitan Nashville Jail, signed a confession early Sunday in which he said he had killed two girls in Michigan and a cab driver in Oklahoma. He later recanted the confession and police said tests showed his first story was a hoax.

The new series of tests was made at the request of Detective Sgt. Bertrand Maxwell of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Roy A. Tanner of the Washtenaw County prosecutor's office. The two officers are here working with Nashville police in checking Sims' story.

After taking back his first story, Sims confided to a reporter that he had not killed the two young girls nor the cab driver—but said he knew he had killed someone in Michigan.

Lt. Noble Bryner said he asked Sims if he had killed anyone in Michigan. Sims answered "yes," the officer said. "The indication of the test was very strong that he was lying," Bryner said.

Opening lead—seven of clubs. Finding the best opening lead is frequently the biggest stumbling block to successful defensive play, but if you keep your ears tuned in to the bidding and correctly interpret the messages being sent back and forth by the bidding side, you may intercept valuable information that will guide you to the winning decision.

Consider this deal where West found the killing lead against four spades. He led a club and South immediately found himself in a position where, regardless of how he played the hand, he would eventually go down one.

He won the club with the jack and led a diamond toward dummy, hoping West would have the ace and duck. But East took the queen with the ace and returned a heart.

South had no quick entry to dummy to take a heart discard on the king of diamonds, so he ducked the heart in the hope that East had led from the king. But West showed up with the king and returned a club, which East ruffed to bring the defense its third trick. South still had to lose a trump to the king and so he went down one.

West's opening club lead was very well founded. He knew from the bidding that declarer had a five-card spade suit, since South could scarcely have bid spades twice with only a four-card suit.

At the same time West realized that South must have at least five clubs for his club bid; with only four of them he would surely have opened the bidding with a spade.

West also knew that North had at least four clubs for his jump raise in clubs, which in turn meant that East had either a singleton or a void in clubs. So West led a club and was adequately compensated for his thoughtful analysis.

Federal Safety Bureau Blasted

DETROIT (AP)—The Federal Highway Safety Bureau was blasted by an American Automobile Association official Tuesday for its failure to undertake significant basic research into the causes of highway accidents.

John de Lorenzi, managing director of the AAA's public and government relations, made the charges at the annual meeting of Traffic Safety for Michigan in Detroit.

He said the lack of basic research by the national highway safety program today has resulted in the uses of safety measures that are ineffective while others that could save lives are not being used.

He cited a U.S. Department of Transportation report which said, "The needed information... on the immediate and underlying causes of accidents and the results of injuries, largely does not exist... little is known about the effectiveness of many countermeasures that have been tried, making it ineffective measures are now in practice, while others that could save many lives are being overlooked."

He said the government should stop setting new safety requirements for cars until they have been "adequately tested and proved by research and that the benefits to be derived justify the costs."

Presbyterians Donate To Blacks

DETROIT (AP) — While denouncing a "Black Manifesto" which demands reparations from white churches, the Detroit Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. has voted to donate up to $130,000 for use by inner city blacks.

The decision came after a bitter five-hour meeting Tuesday, at which the Presbytery accepted the recommendation of a seven-member committee after striking all reference to the National Black Economic Development Conference (NBEDC) and adding a clause denouncing the manifesto.

Soon-To-Be-Divorced Requests Privacy

Dear Ann Landers: My divorce will be final in 45 days. Please print this letter and address it to Every Friend and Relative of A Soon-To-Be-Divorced Woman:

Dear Ones: Please leave me alone. If I decide to go back to my husband, keep your noses out of it. We were married for three years and he behaved like a spoiled brat from the first day. But something miraculous has happened since I filed for divorce. He has finally decided to grow up and accept responsibility. When we met to talk over the financial details he was considerate, agreeable and yes, even gracious. I know I still care about him. I do want to believe he means it when he says he has learned a lot these past several months. So please, stop telling me he will never change and if I take him back I am crazy. If I'm willing to swallow my pride and give him another chance you should help me by keeping your mouths shut. Thank you very much.—Suffered Plenty

Dear Plenty: Welcome to the club. Another ninny who ran to a divorce lawyer and filed when a trial separation would have been the better move.

Never mind about family and friends in the peanut gallery. If you feel there's a chance that your marriage can be saved, give him the chance he asks for. A divorce you can always get.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a reply to the woman who pleaded for understanding because she is partially deaf. Does she use a hearing aid? I'll bet the answer is no. You'd be surprised at the number of hard-of-hearing people who could benefit from a hearing aid but refuse to try one. I know because I use two hearing aids, one in each ear. I wouldn't be able to understand 98 per cent of what is going on without them.

The woman listed six helpful hints for people who must live with someone who is partially deaf. Now may I list a few hints for HER?

1. Go to a specialist if you have not already done so, not a place that fits aids but a physician who will tell you something about your handicap.

2. If the specialist says a hearing aid might help you, run, don't walk, to the nearest hearing center. (Your doctor can direct you.)

Bear in mind that each hearing loss is different. Some aids work better for certain hearing problems than others. Remember that any help you get is better than no help.

3. Don't expect your hearing to improve the first minute you put on the aid. It takes time to become accustomed to it.

4. Take lip reading lessons. If your problem is a nerve deafness, like mine, you'll have one heck of a time distinguishing between consonants and vowels. Lip reading can be a tremendous help.

Recommend Funds For Osteopathic School

LANSING (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee Wednesday recommended that Michigan's 12 state colleges and universities receive a $295.5 million appropriation for the coming fiscal year.

The recommendation would add $13.03 million to funds voted earlier by the Senate. Both allocations add considerably to the $254.3 million recommended by Gov. William G. Milliken in his proposed, $1.5 billion budget.

Principal increases were $4.06 million for the University of Michigan, $200,000 to Michigan State University for expansion of its two-year medical school to a four-year program, and designation of $323,491 for an osteopathic medical school.

The Senate earlier deleted provision for the osteopathic program, although it figured in Milliken's budget.

House approval stipulates the funds be made available only after approval of pending legislation to require affiliation of the college with a degree-granting university.

Selection of the controlling institution would be made by the State Board of Education.

Other revisions proposed by the committee to change Senate allocations were:

—Add $400,000 to the $10.5 million for Central Michigan University.

—Add $450,000 to the $14.3 million for Eastern Michigan University.

—Transfer $1.3 million from the $9.3 million for Michigan Technological University to Lake Superior State College, Lake Superior at Sault Ste. Marie is to be separated from Michigan Tech control.

—Add $183,736 to the $6.9 million for Northern Michigan University.

—Add $375,000 to the $41.7 million for Wayne State University.

In addition, $349,000 has been recommended to continue the Michigan educational television interconnect, linking Detroit's WTVS, Lansing's WMSB and Bay City's WUCM television stations.

CAA Receives $48,500 Grant

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A $48,500 federal anti-poverty grant has been approved for the Menominee - Delta Schoolcraft Community Action Agency, announced Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.)

The funds, authorized by the Office of Economic Opportunity, will be used to provide day care, dental care and neighborhood service programs for low income families in the three counties, Griffin said.

Raymond LaPorte of Escanaba is director of the agency.

Trenary

Members of the Trenary Lions Club are moving ahead with plans for this year's celebration to observe the anniversary of our nation's independence on July 4th. The Lions Club assumed full responsibility for the affair in 1951 and has attempted to enlarge and improve it every year since. New this year will be "Pug" rides for small children and a pancake, maple syrup, and sausage feed at supper time.

The celebration has become noted for its strong homecoming attraction. Former residents have found that they stand an excellent chance of meeting and renewing friendships with old acquaintances by scheduling their vacations to include the 4th of July.

The day's activities start with a parade at 10:30 and end with an excellent fireworks display followed by a dance to the music of the Rhythm Rockers. In between, the public is free to enjoy a big midway with rides and games, a lunch and a refreshment stand, races and many other competitive events. Hot pasties will be available throughout the day. A Midget League baseball game is scheduled for 2:30.

All profits from the day's activities go into the Lions Club's Activities Fund. Co-chairmen for this year will be Lions Wilho Pylvanen and John Matekel.

Mauritus issued two stamps in 1847, becoming the first British possession to adopt that means of paying postage.

Permits Needed For Installation Of Septic Tanks

Persons installing new or altering old septic tank systems were reminded today by Thomas Vietzke, sanitary inspector for the Delta-Menominee District Health Dept., that permits are required.

"There are health regulations and requirements that must be followed with each septic tank installation," Vietzke said. "These requirements are set up to assure the person having the work done that he will have an efficient system and not have undue cost and maintenance problems in the future."

"Good sewerage systems also prevent pollution of nearby water supplies," he added.

A sanitarian is available from 8 to 10 a. m. weekdays at the Delta-Menominee District Health Dept. offices in the Delta County Building in Escanaba to assist anyone to meet requirements.

4-H Archery

The 4-H archery project improves archery skills as well as providing educational benefits, according to Donald E. Brown, extension 4-H youth agent. The project helps provide an understanding and appreciation of nature and the out-of-doors through an outdoor recreation activity, Browns says.

Brown suggests that young people interested in the 4-H archery project contact the county Extension Service office, 786-3032 in Escanaba or 863-9291 in Menominee. Adults are needed to serve as leaders for the project, Brown said.

Escanaba To Host State Commission

The August meeting of the Michigan State Civil Service Commission will be held in the Upper Peninsula, the first time in three years the commissioners have met above the straits. Meetings are held in Lansing, with a few in Detroit, and once each year a session is held outside the state. Traverse City was the scene of the 1968 August session.

The commissioners will visit the Newberry State Hospital and some of the agency activities in Marquette before going to Escanaba, which will be the scene of the sessions.

In a program designed to bring greater communications between the civil service commission and the employee groups within the commission authority, five members of the employee relations staff held two sessions this week in Newberry and in Escanaba.

Their visits were broken into four sections, a meeting with representatives of employee groups, an open session for employees to discuss personal problems, followed by a meeting with the administrative people of the various agencies coming under civil service authority, and a final public session. In Escanaba and Newberry few of the general public attended, but there was lively discussion on some of the problems that face administrative officers both in their own relationships to the civil service commission and with the employees of their departments.

Briefly Told

A 4-H horse show will be held Sunday starting at 9 a. m. at the high country on the Gladstone bluff. Anyone age 18 or under can enter.

Mrs. Bernette Miller with the Escanaba office of the Great American Insurance Co. recently completed a training program in the mechanics of loss adjusting. This program is designed to enable agents of the company to refer claims directly to the Escanaba office for payment without the necessity and delay of going through an adjustment company.

Elmer A. Bessonon of Escanaba was one of 135 men and women who received final certificates in real estate Thursday at recognition exercises at the University of Michigan. The state wide certificate program in real estate is offered by the U-M Graduate School of Business Administration, the University Extension Service and the Michigan Real Estate Association.

Escanaba Man In Car-Deer Mishap

An Escanaba man escaped injury in a car-deer accident that occurred at 10:55 a.m. Wednesday on County Rd. 569, three miles west of LaBranche.

State Police said that Michael Kriz, 27, of 2209 12th Ave. S., Escanaba, was traveling west on the highway when a deer ran out in front of his car.

Extensive damage resulted to Kriz's car, and it had to be towed from the scene.

Lake Shore, Inc. Earnings Gain

B. W. Reeve, president of Lake Shore, Inc. of Iron Mountain, in his report to stockholders at the company's annual meeting, reported that the recently completed fiscal year was the fourth consecutive year in which Lake Shore achieved record sales and earnings.

Reeve expressed guarded optimism concerning the level of future economic activity in the mining, marine deck machinery and construction fields — the primary industries which Lake Shore serves.

He pointed out that activity in the marine deck machinery field has slowed considerably during recent months because of the lack of an adequate federal subsidy program for upgrading the merchant marine fleet.

J. T. Malsack, executive vice president said the federal surtax and the Michigan income tax during the past year increased the company's tax obligations by 10 per cent, which resulted in reduced profit after taxes.

The company paid approximately $4,000,000 in wages and salaries last year and an additional $75,000 for group insurance, pension funds and other employee benefit programs for the company's 560 employees, he said.

All members of the company's board of directors were re-elected at the meeting. They are: Dr. James C. Hodge and Walter A. Sterling, Cleveland, Ohio; Austin S. Lett and Vernon A. Swanson, Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Lee Redman, Phoenix, Arizona; Mrs. F. A. Flood and J. T. Malsack, Iron Mountain; and John R. Greenly, Peter B. Mitchell and B. W. Reeve, Kingsford.

'Mitrapab' A Unique Aid Plan For Thailand

SAMUT SONGKRAM, Thailand (AP)—The man with the graying handlebar mustache hit the dusty paddy field with a thump that made the 20,000 Thai spectators gasp with fright.

Second later Col. Lewis L. Millett, a 48-year-old World War II veteran and Korean War hero, was on his feet, grasping at the cords of his parachute which continued to blow in the strong cross-wind.

The crowd relaxed momentarily, until four more white puffs dotted the morning sky. Trailing smoke from canisters strapped to their ankles, the four plummeted down the 7,500 feet from the Thai Air Force plane.

Three chutes opened. The fourth did not.

Doesn't Cost U. S.

"Pop that chute! Pop that chute," Millett yelled as the crowd grew tense.

"Boy that was close," Millett said, as the chute opened at about 900 feet. "He had about five seconds leeway."

The crowd loved it.

It's the same scene every weekend in different towns and cities across Thailand—the Army colonel from Poland, Maine, leading an exuberant group of American and Thai civilian and military parachutists in what many Thais consider the best aid program in Asia.

Called "mitrapab," Thai for friendship, the program doesn't cost the U. S. taxpayer a cent although the parachutists pay with twisted ankles, bruised backs and two with their lives.

Raises Funds

"Mitrapab" began in 1961 when U. S. Army Capt. Richard "Kit" Carson and Thai Lt. Col. Pratib Chaipani were caught in a tropical downpour

McCabe said the attack was run by "various parts of government, legislative and executive, often using the technique of the witch hunt."

AIRPLANE PILOT Denny McLain looks over the shoulder of Bruce Thompson at a "Peace Flag" that he is flying to Washington for delivery to Jack McDonald, R-Mich. Thompson and two associates, James Saile and Ted Hubert, hope Rep. McDonald can convince Congress in having the astronauts place the flag on the moon along with the United States and United Nations flags. The flag measures about three by four feet.

Michigan Men Design Peace Flag For Moon

DETROIT (AP)—Three Michigan men may play an important part in the coming moon landing July 20. A "peace" flag they designed may be planted on the moon's surface along with an American flag.

The three men—Bruce Thompson, 42, of Highland; James R. Saile, 45, of Clarkston; and Ted Hubert, 38, of Lake Orion—have carried their idea to Washington.

The peace flag commemorates both American and Soviet space pioneers, who helped make the July landing possible.

Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-Mich., has picked up the idea and called it to the attention of leading members of the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee.

So far there has been no reply from committee members Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-New Mexico.

The three Oakland men run an advertising agency in Pontiac, where the idea originated earlier this month.

A 3-foot by 4-foot flag bearing the portraits of three deceased American astronauts and two Russian cosmonauts sewn by Saile's mother-in-law Mrs. Ethel Wright, 74, was flown to Rep. McDonald in Washington on Wednesday.

State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge and State Rep. Loren Anderson have also demonstrated support for the idea.

The three Americans whose faces appear on the peace flag are Virgil (Gus) Grissom, Edward H. White and Roger B. Chaffee. The three, scheduled to fly in the first Apollo, were killed Jan. 27, 1967, when a fire destroyed their space capsule as they rehearsed their flight.

Soviet cosmonauts to be honored are Yuri Gagarin, the first man to enter space in 1961, and Vladimir M. Komarov, who died April 24, 1967 during the re-entry of his spaceship.

Advertising executive Thompson called for this tribute to "man's greatest scientific achievement" in a letter to Rep. McDonald.

"When the astronaut makes that first step on the moon, television cameras will carry this historic feat world wide," he observed, adding:

"With the turmoil, the mistrust, the bickering, the killing, etc., not even mentioning our image worldwide, wouldn't it be wonderful if the United States—Man's representative to the first landing on the moon—recognized man paid tribute to the men who gave their lives for this purpose?"

Bluff Golf Course Taking Shape

BY DAVE ANDREWS

From U. S. 2 and 41 between Escanaba and Gladstone, except for the gaping hole cut to build a road where the sand looks like a manicured desert, the bluff along the lakefront looks much like it always has.

Up on top, however, there is a bustle of activity as work progresses on the newest golf course and residential subdivision in the Upper Peninsula.

Lake Bluff Estates—a dream of a group of local businessmen a couple of years ago—is beginning to take shape.

Eighteen golf holes have been cut out of the woods and a series of roads thread through the trees. Three homes are under construction with the first, built by J. W. Pascoe of Escanaba, to be ready for occupancy by July 30.

Begins Taking Shape

Construction of the course began last fall with roughing out of the fairways, but it really began taking shape last week with the arrival of E. G. (Ted) Lockie of E. G. Lockie & Associates of Moline, Ill.

A member of the Professional Golfers Association who some 15 years ago took a brief swing on the winter professional tour, Lockie has built some 430 golf holes in the Midwest. He lists among his credits eight golf courses in the Green Bay, Wis., area, including Mystery Hills at DePere, Fox Hills at Mishicot, Fox Valley Country Club at Kaukauna, Mid-Valley at Wrightstown and Grand View at Hortonville.

"This is the biggest course I've built and it'll be one of the prettiest," he said.

Lockie said the course will be ready for play certainly by July 4, 1970, and very possibly earlier. Grass on the greens, he pointed out, will need cutting this fall.

The basic design calls for a par 72 layout to stretch some 6,740 challenging yards through the pine trees on the bluff. Greens will average around 8,000 square feet and tees "will start" at 30 by 80 feet and get larger with some double tees planned.

Exact distances of the holes won't be determined until the work is completed, however, as Lockie relies upon his golf experience to make modifications along the way. He considers this experience a "tremendous advantage" in building a golf course.

"I sort of draw it the way I see it, like a picture," he smiled.

After rough shaping of a green, for example, Lockie said he'll walk back into the "hit zones" of the fairway and look at it, then return to make changes or add bunkers where he feels they're needed.

"I can change a whole green with the bulldozer in about 10 minutes," he added.

The biggest problem in building the course on the bluff, Lockie said, is with the fairways, most of which were chopped out of heavy woods. Before grass can be planted, twigs, sticks and other debris will have to be cleared and the ground leveled.

Clubhouse Planned

The course, when completed, will include watered fairways and be "well trapped" but no water hazards are planned.

"The trees along the fairways will bloom as the water and fertilizer reach out," he commented.

As yet, no work has started on the clubhouse, but Matt N. Smith, executive vice president of Northern Michigan National Bank of Escanaba and the driving force behind Lake Bluff Development Corp., said the group hopes construction can begin this fall.

Lake Bluff Development plans to deed the golf course to the new Lake Bluff Country Club without charge. Initiation fees to the club of $1,000 then would be used to finance the clubhouse development, which will include an indoor Junior Olympic swimming pool, locker facilities, dining rooms and bar in an 18,000 square foot building.

To Open in May

The clubhouse will be set at the crest of the bluff near the top of the winding drive up the bluff from U. S. 2 and 41 and overlooking Little Bay de Noc.

Smith said the club already has 83 paid memberships and that a general membership drive is scheduled in July and August. Annual dues will be $200.

Residentially, the first phase of the Lake Bluff subdivision has 193 lots surrounding the first nine holes on the golf course. Roads through the subdivision have been roughed-in and are being graveled.

Street lighting is planned to light the drive up the side of the bluff to the golf club and subdivision.

Lake Bluff Country Club is scheduled to open by May 1, 1970, and besides golf and swimming will provide tennis, snowmobiling and ice skating. A nature trail for hiking and horseback riding, etc., will wind through the property, which Lake Bluff purchased from Jack Whitney.

One of the roads on the property will be named Whitney Boulevard.

The bluff, however, will never be the same.

Three Survive Plane Crash

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP)—Three survivors of a weekend plane crash which killed three companions have been rescued from the wild Cedar Breaks mountain area of southern Utah.

Volunteer ground searchers Wednesday found David L. Watson, 44, who was trying to walk to civilization for help. A helicopter picked up Oswald Simon, 38, and Robert L. McCord Jr., 31, who had spent three days and nights at the scene of the crash.

The dead were John Bury, 42, the pilot; Clarence McLean, 60, and Charles Straumer, 33.

The six, all Californians, came to Utah to film episodes of the "Death Valley Days" series. They left Cedar City in a rented plane Sunday for a sightseeing excursion.

The plane, heading up a canyon, was unable to clear an 11,000-foot cliff. The pilot attempted to land in a small clearing on the slope of the timbered mountain.

"We hit the trees," said Watson. He was thrown clear of the wreckage and suffered cuts, bruises and a cracked vertebrae.

Watson said he built a fire with the only three matches they could find and the three survivors waited out Sunday night.

Just before daybreak Monday, Watson decided to go for help, following a creek downstream.

Monday night he slept on a bed of pine cones, Tuesday night he slept in mud, "because I couldn't get out."

"Each night, though," he said, "I kept hearing a voice—God—saying: 'Don't give up. They're going to find you.'"

Watson was still walking Wednesday when volunteer searchers from the Brian Head Ski Resort spotted him on a ledge.

Simon and McCord were brought out after a Civil Air Patrol plane found the wreckage and called a helicopter.

Teacher Strike Warning Given

LANSING (AP)—Citing what state funds granted this year to local school districts, a member of the State Board of Education Wednesday warned of possible teacher strikes.

Dr. Leroy Augenstein urged colleagues on the State Board to "assume an increasing role in avoiding teacher strikes this fall."

"State aid funds were appropriated late this year," he said, referring to the $848.7 million school aid bill signed into law June 20 by Gov. William Milliken. The action was nearly two months later than the date on which former Gov. George Romney signed the school aid bill last year.

"The appropriations were not enough to keep up with inflation and increased enrollments," Augenstein added.

Heavy Storms Hit Downstate

By The Associated Press

Heavy storms and at least one tornado tore through Newaygo and Kent counties early today, doing at least $50,000 damage.

State Police reported tornadoes sighted near Bitely, Hess Lake and Grant in Newaygo County, north of Grand Rapids, and heavy storm damage in Cedar Springs, in northern Kent County.

Most heavily damaged were two mobile home firms, which reported about 20 trailers damaged or destroyed.

Police estimated damage at Grant's R & H Mobile Homes at between $20,000 and $30,000. At least 4 new house trailers were damaged and one was completely destroyed.

Another trailer firm in Cedar Springs reported damages amounting to $30,000 to $35,000.

Police reported numerous trees knocked over, cottages damaged and power lines knocked down throughout the area, but could offer no specific damage figures besides those of the trailer firms.

The U.S. Weather Bureau meanwhile forecast continued turbulence for the entire west Michigan area, with severe turbulence in regions of thunderstorms.

Surface winds were expected to reach 30 miles per hour, with stronger blasts in gusts in thunderstorms.

57 Aboard Hijacked Plane

MIAMI (AP)—A man in a white sweater hijacked a jetliner with 57 aboard to Cuba Wednesday night, boosting to 1,611 the number of persons who have been detained to the Caribbean island this year.

A witness at Havana's Jose Marti Airport said the man was taken into custody by Cuban officials. No weapon was visible and further identification could not be made, said the witness.

Jim Frazier of the Federal Aviation Administration in Miami said the crew gave no information on the hijacking during the nonstop California-to-Havana flight, the 31st hijacking to Cuba in 1969.

The pilot veered southeast from a regular course on the scheduled Los Angeles-to-New York flight over Riverside, Calif., less than 16 minutes after he was airborne.

The DC8, United Air Lines flight 14, carried 50 passengers, including several United sales personnel from New York, and a crew of seven. The plane landed at Havana at 12:01 a.m.

Graduate 16 State Troopers

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State Police added 16 troopers with graduation ceremonies Wednesday to bring department enlisted strength to 1,690 men.

This is 70 below the strength of 1,760 authorized by the Legislature.

Trooper William Parvianen Jr. of Ishpeming took the recruit class award for academic achievement. The class award for the marksmanship went to trooper William Dailey of Benton Harbor.

Col. Fredrick Davis, State Police director, presented the 1968 Trooper of the Year award to Trooper Howard Keena of the Newaygo post. Keena was cited for outstanding community service, particularly among young people.

Equal Representation; Warren's Top Decision

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Earl Warren says the most important Supreme Court rulings of his 16 years as chief justice of the United States were those declaring that one man's vote should mean as much as any other man's.

If the people have equal representation in government, they can solve most problems "through the political process rather than through the courts," Warren says in an interview broadcast today.

The 78-year-old Warren, who retired Monday, chose reapportionment decisions over the more widely known school desegregation ruling of 1954 as

U.S. Loses 247 Men In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)—Battle deaths in Vietnam dropped last week with a lessening in major ground fighting, the allied commands reported today.

U.S. headquarters said 247 Americans were killed in action in the seven-day period ending at midnight Saturday—a decrease of 88 deaths from 335 the previous week.

American wounded also dropped from 1,695 to 1,686. Of these, headquarters said, 797 were hospitalized.

South Vietnamese headquarters said its forces lost 474 men killed last week, down from 516 the previous week. But the 1,496 government soldiers wounded in action last week was an increase over 1,424 wounded a week earlier.

The two commands said 3,988 enemy were reported killed last week. They updated the previous week's toll from 4,360 to 4,504.

The casualties raised to 36,625 the number of Americans killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. Another 234,889 Americans have been wounded and 1,337 are listed as missing, captured or interned.

Omaha Struck By Race Riot

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Business buildings along a six-block stretch were smoldering or in ruins today after a night of burning, looting and sniping in the predominantly Negro Near North Side of the city.

No serious injuries were reported.

It was the second consecutive night of disorder touched off by the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old Negro girl by a white policeman—James Loder, 30, identified in his city personnel file as the adopted son of film actress Hedy Lamarr.

Vandalism and looting were reported by police in an area 55 blocks long and 24 blocks wide.

Firemen who were the targets of bricks and bottles refused to fight flames in the business section until provided with a police escort. Police Lt. Lewis Ruberti said shots were fired at a number of his men.

Helmeted police armed with riot guns were stationed around the firemen and their rigs as the flames illuminated the muggy summer sky.

The central police station reported that at least 30 persons had been jailed on charges ranging from carrying concealed weapons to illegal entry of a building.

Major fires were confined to the main business street although minor ones broke out elsewhere in the area.

Vandalism, window-breaking and looting were widespread. "They just seem to be jumping around and hitting us everywhere," said Police Inspector Al Pattavina.

Briefly Told

Escanaba firemen were called to the Dells Supper Club about 9 a.m. today to extinguish a fire that started in a closet in one of the cabins. Damage was largely caused by smoke and heat.

The report of a breaking and entering of the Colonial Hotel was received by city police and is being investigated today. Entry was made by forcing open a front door. There appeared to be nothing missing.

Pour Glass For Largest Mirror

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—With scientists and dignitaries from two nations looking on, Owens-Illinois, Inc., poured 25 tons of molten glass Wednesday into a casting for a 158-inch, new type telescope mirror to be installed in Chile.

The casting, poured within ten minutes was described as one of the largest single pieces of glass in the world. Speakers hailed it as "the start of a new era in astronomy and Latin American relations."

When completed, the big disc of zero-expansion glass will serve as the telescope mirror for the new Cerro-Toledo Inter-American Observatory about 55 miles east of La Serena, Chile, sitting at an altitude of 7,200 feet.

Company officials said the material they developed is a crystallized glass that does not expand or change shape during extreme changes in temperature.

probably the most far-reaching of the Warren Court years. He said he likes to think of those years as the era of the "people's court."

Reapportionment

Reapportionment rulings triggered a revolution in makeup of state legislatures and other governmental bodies.

In the area of civil rights, the silver-haired Warren expressed frustration at what he called cases of outright flaunting of decisions or slowness in implementing them.

And Warren called a definition of obscenity one of the toughest court problems. He defended obscenity rulings.

He denied allegations that numerous civil liberties decisions resulted in "coddling" criminals and made it tougher for prosecutors to convict.

Warren's comments were in an hour-long interview with Morrie Landsberg, editor of McClatchy Broadcasting, which operates stations KFBK-Radio and KOVR-Television, in Sacramento.

Landsberg interviewed Warren in his Washington, D.C., study several weeks before his retirement with the understanding it would not be aired until after he stepped down.

First Comment

It was Warren's first public comment on many of the sensitive issues before the nation's highest court during his term as chief justice. He was appointed in 1953 by then President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Warren formerly was Republican governor of California.

Warren took note of great problems America faces.

"I don't have answers for them," he said. But he expressed faith that the Constitution and Bill of Rights would survive the assaults of a changing society.

In the area of pornography, Warren said the court had to balance two constitutional rights against each other: the right of government to create a decent society and the speech and press freedoms guaranteed by the first amendment.

"... And when you have those two things coming together, you find it very difficult to write a verbal definition of what obscenity is," he said.

Warren used reapportionment as an example in replying to frequently voiced criticism that the Warren Court's decisions have usurped states' rights.

"What does reapportionment do to establish states' rights?" he asked. "It establishes in the states the power to govern themselves...."

Rural interests no longer dominate legislatures, ignoring the problems of the under-represented cities, he said.

Few Changes In Milliken's Budget

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William G. Milliken's proposed $1.51 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 shows increasing signs of emerging from legislative review very much as he proposed it.

The House meets today at 2 p.m.

In the House where opposition Democrats hold a bare four-vote majority, eight budget bills are some $25.9 million less than Milliken proposed despite addition of $15.4 million to earlier Senate allocations totaling $583.2 million. Milliken asked $624.5 million.

Five of those bills received substantial House approval Wednesday with virtually no attempts to amend them on the floor. Three more remained to be acted on by midnight Friday.

Only the $41.8-million capital outlay allocation, now some $10.7 million less than Milliken's January proposal, has run into trouble. Opposition to earmarking $4 million for development of a new Capitol was expected to be overcome.

Try To Change Cavanagh's Mind

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh was the object Wednesday of two attempts by labor groups to persuade him to reverse his decision not to seek re-election.

The mayor's political confidante and city director of purchases and supplies, Joseph B. Sullivan told both groups, "The mayor's decision not to run for a third term was a firm decision, although he thanks you for your interest."

The groups were the Metropolitan Detroit Labor and Civic Association and the Trade Union Leadership Council and Tom Turner of the Wayne County AFL-CIO together with Myra Wolfgang of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union and other labor leaders.

Cavanagh spent the day with his sons.

Geometrical Styling In Womens' Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — Drape piece of black wool somehow sprouts a stand-up collar while and the fall fashion creations of Greek-born designer George Stavropoulos look more like experiments in geometry than the stuff high style is made of.

But put them on a woman and they come alive.

One of Stavropoulos's most complicated productions is the "puzzle pants," a one-piece affair that starts down the shoulder like a cape, then somehow turns into a jumpsuit with two flouncy skirts of chiffon. It looks and moves like a dream.

Mystery is the keynote of Stavropoulos's seamless coat—both for the way it makes a woman look and for the way it was made. The single round Stavropoulos unveiled his fall designs Wednesday at the American Designer Showings. And when it wasn't dramatic, this Greek-inspired collection was at the very least alluring.

An elegant chiffon gown, a tall silhouette in white, bares one shoulder.

Proving he's willing to go mod as well as traditional, Stavropoulos completed his collection with a brushed blue wool coat and matching skirt that ended halfway up between the knee and ankle.

The young, free, bold look—by way of the 1930s—dominated the fall offerings of Gayle Kirkpatrick, who designed with the long and lean in mind.

Deep-colored satin mindresses and shirts were sprinkled throughout the collection, along with some daring dips in the neckline.

One "V" neck—in a loose-fitting evening gown—plunged waist low. The fabric, a glitter of deep purple sequins, was eye-catching too.

Planning Grant Okayed:

Downtown Renewal Total Project To Cost $1,130,000

By BARBARA JOHNSON
Planning funds for a major urban renewal project that would bring about the redevelopment of Manistique's downtown district have been approved by the office of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C.

Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) announces that HUD has approved funds for survey and planning activities in the amount of $117,141.

This grant of $117,141 is to be used for planning activities for a 26.5 acre site in Manistique's central business district, said Ruppe.

Cost Over $1 Million
"The final project is expected to cost $1,130,000 and entails the rehabilitation and clearance of approximately 81 buildings," Ruppe said he was informed by the office of Housing and Urban Development.

A formal notification to City Manager Robert Noe is expected within a few days.

The grant approval came as a surprise to city officials, since the application was filed almost three years ago — on Dec. 12, 1966, signed by then City Manager Samuel Gesko.

Property acquisitions, site clearance, and project improvement, sewer improvements, off street parking, plus other relocation programs are mentioned in the application as necessary for "new commercial development and general beautification of the central downtown district area."

Also included is the "rehabilitation and clearance of 81 buildings in the downtown business district."

The central business district is defined as the four-block area bounded by Maple, Main, Pearl and Oak Streets, and an adjacent area, the southeast corner of Oak and Maple Sts. is also included.

Local Cost $282,000
Although time and circumstances may have altered the original intent of the application, it is possible the grant money may be utilized to implement current renewal problems facing the city. It is also possible, under current federal regulations that the city may qualify for reimbursement of certain programs already undertaken.

The final project approval is contingent upon 25 per cent matching moneys — roughly about $282,000 — but this provision included "in kind" contributions.

Sewerage Problem
It is conceivable the city might tie in renewal projects such as Weston Ave. and the off street parking proposal.

The problem of "what to do with Weston Ave." has been a thorn for some time with the city. The street is in violation of state anti-pollution laws with its inadequate sewage facilities and the dumping of wastewater into the Manistique River. No money is available for new sewerage installations or relocation of the street's residents.

The city, consequently, faces possible citation from the state for a violation of anti-pollution laws.

Although the downtown off-street parking plan was defeated at last Monday night's Council meeting, when a majority of the affected property owners failed to support the plan, such a program might be included in the final project application.

City Manager Robert Noe was unavailable for comment. He is enroute to Manistique from Florida where he has been vacationing.

City Council will undoubtedly act on the grant approval at its July 14th meeting.

Girl Scouts Plan Camping

"Your Handbook" will be the theme of this year's day camping for Manistique Girl Scouts at Camp Hy-da-way on Indian Lake. The day camp will be in operation July 21-25.

Mrs. Francis Malette will be camp director assisted by Mesdames Bill Wallace, Charles Varnum, Kenneth Thorell, Ingmar Levin, two senior program aides and Cadette Troop 26. Mrs. Levin will serve as camp nurse while the Cadette scouts will assist the adult leaders as camp aides.

Each unit at the day camp will choose a craft from their handbook and work on a particular project. In addition, all girls will try their hands at outdoor cooking. Conservation and outdoor good-turns will also be emphasized, Mrs. Malette said.

Mrs. Varnum will teach "dry land" swimming strokes if water swimming weather is not good.

Registrations are open to first year Brownies, Fly-ups, Junior Girl Scouts, Girl Scouts and those bridging into Cadettes and should be sent to Mrs. Malette, 507 Manistique Ave., before July 1, if possible. Health forms are available from Mrs. Malette and leaders and should be returned, along with complete registration, and $5 camping fee.

The $5 camping fee includes the noon meal and all craft supplies. Checks should be made payable to Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council.

Mackinac Seeks Money Source

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—the president of Mackinac College says officials of the school are continuing to hunt for possible sources of money to keep the institution in operation.

"If the money were found, we certainly wouldn't close down," Dr. S. Douglas Cornell said Wednesday night.

"Because of the financial problems, we have arbitrarily limited enrollment this year to 50 students," compared with the 300 who enrolled last fall, he said. Cornell said a large portion of last fall's enrollment has been aided in transferring to other colleges.

"There's been no decision to close down after the coming year," he said.

He said the college needs $1.3 million to pay off all obligations by the end of the current fiscal year and operate on a reduced basis next year. He said the faculty will be trimmed from 31 to 12 by fall.

Mackinac College, which has been closely tied with the Moral Re-Armament movement, was founded in 1966. It aimed to produce graduates with "the determination to exert responsible, selfless leadership in meeting the challenges of our times."

Lolich Cools Yanks As Tigers Win, 6-1

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers' hopes of catching the Baltimore Orioles in the American League pennant race were a tiny bit brighter today thanks to the talents of lefthander Mickey Lolich, pitcher and slugger.

Lolich, bidding for the role of strikeout king of the majors, whiffed nine New York Yankees Wednesday as he stopped them on a comparatively easy 6-1 effort, the Tigers third win in a row over the New Yorkers.

"I wasn't too concerned about getting strikeouts. I just wanted to beat them," said Lolich.

It was his second win of the year over the Yankees and he collected nine strikeouts to run his total to 111... just four behind pitcher Ray Culp of the Boston Red Sox who has 115.

Lolich was rough on the Bombers all the way as he virtually stifled their biggest guns and was potent himself on the offense driving in what proved to be the winning run with a line shot to right in the second inning to send the Tigers into a 2-0 lead.

Lolich's wallop off Yankee starter and loser Fritz Peterson had Yankee manager Ralph Houk talking to himself in the New York dressing room after the game.

Walk Freehan

In that Tiger second, recently called - up third baseman Ike Brown got things rolling with a single to center with two out. Jim Northrup rifled a triple to deep right center, sending Brown scampering across with the first run of the ball game.

"I figured Freehan was a much better hitter than Lolich, so I gave the signal to put Freehan on with an intentional walk," explained the crestfallen Houk.

"I never figured Lolich would hit that well. I wanted to keep that second run from coming across for I knew the way Lolich pitched in the first two innings that he was going to be rough," said Houk.

Lolich drilled a clean single to right scoring Northrup and giving the Tigers their two run lead.

In the seventh, Lolich came up with a different type of hitting prowess as he dropped a sacrifice bunt and reached first on a fielder's choice when Peterson was a bit slow in fielding the ball and trying for a forceout at second on Freehan who had singled.

Moments later, Dick McAuliffe singled Freehan home and Tom Tresh brought Lolich in with the Tigers fourth run on a long sacrifice fly.

Seven Strights

Lolich's win ran his record to 9-1 for the season and gave him seven consecutive wins.

"The only game I lost was in April in Boston when I flew up there on military leave from my reserve outfit in Savannah, Ga. and got beat good," he said.

Lolich's big worry Wednesday night was the weatherman and his forecasts of warmer weather ahead.

"I pitch a lot better when it is cool and I am not too happy to see the real warm summer days coming," he said.

Yankee boss Houk unhappy after dropping the first three games of the four game set-to with the Tigers, commented, "It was not our night. That Lolich pitched a real fine game just about on par with the one Denny McLain pitched against us the previous night."

Lolich Happy

Lolich was delighted with the Tiger attack that gave him an early lead and continued to pile up as the game went on. "They have been hitting real well behind me this year—giving me six or seven runs a game in some cases and it is a great contrast from last year when I generally worked with no more than a one or two run lead," Lolich said.

Lolich took particular delight in getting Yankee slugger Joe Pepitone twice on strikeouts. "He always has been tough on me," said Lolich.

Peterson, 8-8 for the season and 0-3 against the Tigers pitched what Houk called "a real fine game that under different conditions might have been a winner."

He gave up a solo home run to Norm Cash (No. 11) in the fourth and Yankee relief pitcher Al Downing was touched for Jim Northrup's 12th homer in the Tiger eighth as the Detroiters built an insurance cushion for Lolich.

Detroit named Joe Sparna (4-3) for the windup of the four game series tonight with the Yankees sending their ace Mel Stottlemyre (9-6) out to try to salvage one game of the four game series.

Palmer Seeking Tourney Victory

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Well," Arnold Palmer said, "I can't say I'm satisfied. You're never satisfied unless you're winning. But maybe, just maybe, I'm on the way to being satisfied. Maybe so. Maybe."

The muscular man with the putty face made the comments after shooting a six-under-par 64 in the amateur event preceding today's first round in the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament on the 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course.

The 39-year-old idol of the galleries needs a victory perhaps more than ever before.

It's not that he needs the money. He's the game's first millionaire. He's made more out of it than any other person. But he needs a victory—in the worst way.

For the first time since 1955 he does not hold a title.

His last one went by the boards last week in the Kemper Open at Charlotte, N.C., where he was the defending champion.

Now it's been more than a year since he won and his defeat last week marked the first time since he won the Canadian Open in 1955 that he didn't hold a championship somewhere.

"I've been working on my game quite a lot," he said.

"My father and I worked over some things before the National Open in Houston two weeks ago. It helped. I played better, but not good enough."

"Then last week at Charlotte, I played pretty well, but I didn't put it all for the first three rounds. A friend of mine there, Dick Tiddy, helped me a little on my putting."

"The last round I started getting some putts to drop. But I still had 30 putts. That's not good."

He closed with a final 66, six under par, in the Kemper but it wasn't enough and he finished in a tie for fifth behind winner Dale Douglass.

"I'm driving the ball well," he said. "I think I led the Kemper in greens hit in regulation, and I missed only two fairways today. It's been the putting. But that seems to be improving."

"You have to be encouraged after a 66 and 64."

The 64 was even more remarkable because the four-time Masters champ took a double bogey 6 on his first hole. He pushed his tee shot into the woods at the right, chipped back to the fairway then three-putted from 25 feet.

He missed a two-footer on his second putt, tapped in, turned his back to the gallery and muttered, "that's not it. That's not it at all."

He rimmed the cup on a 15-foot birdie putt on the second and said, "Well, at least I hit it."

He hit the back of the cup with an 18-foot bird on the third hole, retrieved the ball and said, "That's a little more like it."

Outdoor Sports

By Bob Gregg

I have just finished reading a report about the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources' fantastic Lake Michigan brown trout program being conducted in Green Bay.

"Why not a program like this for Escanaba area anglers?" Sure the steelhead come in for a few "hit and miss" weeks in the spring, and we fight each other for space during the brief coho run in the fall, but how about some year-round fishing for some really big trout.

That's what they have in Wisconsin. Why not here!

The Wisconsin DNR started its brown trout program strictly as an experiment.

In 1966, 40,000 browns were stocked off the Door Peninsula near Green Bay.

After that, the fish seemed to disappear. Commercial fishermen came across a few, anglers caught an occasional straggler now and then, but for a time there was no reason to be optimistic.

Then it happened. In the fall of 1967 some lucky anglers stumbled into some good-sized browns, but before too much excitement was generated winter drove anglers off the big lake.

In 1968, the big browns really took charge.

"Beginning in early April, fishermen were taking 16-18 inch browns" said Lee Kernens, Wisconsin fish biologist. Kernens identified them as fish released in 1967 at only nine inches in length.

"Those two to three-pound trout caught in April inflated themselves to six pounds by mid-July!" Kernens added.

These normally wary browns were so intent on heavy feeding that they became easy victims for any shiny lure fishermen would toss their way.

One Sheboygan man caught three fish in one day weighing a total of 37-pounds. That's right, 37-pounds!

One of his fish was a 27-inch monster that weighed 14-pounds.

This whopper led a Green Bay based biologist — football-oriented, of course — to say that the fish looked like a "football with fins!" It did.

Unlike the coho and the steelhead that return close to shore only to spawn, Wisconsin biologists say that big Lake Michigan browns tend to stay close to shore the year-round.

In the fall of 1968, Wisconsin biologists reported seeing hundreds of huge 10-pound plus trout, gathered in large schools, jumping and cavorting in three to four feet of water.

Boy! Wouldn't you like to see a sight like that in Little Bay de Noc?

Our offshore area has the same water conditions and physical set-up as the Wisconsin shoreline and there is no biological or physical reason such a program would not have the same success here in Little Bay de Noc.

"We started such a program back in June of 1967," said Cliff Long, DNR fish biologist stationed at Escanaba. "And 15,000 browns, averaging five inches in length, were planted in Little Bay de Noc offshore near Gladstone."

Long explained that this initial plant proved highly successful and that many of these fish reached the four-pound mark in one year.

He told men that in August, 1968, one small pound net yielded 80 of these big browns.

Long said that he had planned on planting 25,000 browns each of the past two years, but that DNR hatcheries have told him they can not supply the fish he so badly needs.

"It would appear by the return of big browns from the initial stocking that a program such as this would create a terrific fishery in Little Bay de Noc," Long said. "The only thing holding back this program is the lack of fish for planting," he added.

Trout fishermen have screamed high and low about the DNR's neglect of them, and I'm beginning to see a few points in their argument.

This year the DNR plans to stock almost 5 1/2 million salmon and steelhead, along with only 80,000 brown trout. This means that brown trout, which provide a year-round fishery, make up a small 1.5 per cent of the amount of trout and salmon stocked annually by the Department.

I go along wholeheartedly with the wonderful steelhead and salmon program the DNR is carrying out, but I hope the department doesn't continue to neglect the great year-round fishing a good brown trout program could provide.

New Record Brown Trout

Arthur Huls of Ferrysburg, Mich., holds this state's new record for a sport-caught brown trout after landing a 21-pound, 8-ounce lunger recently from Crystal Lake in Benzie County.

Huls outfought his champion-sized brown trout, measuring 33 3/4 inches, after it snapped up a minnow baited on a 6-pound monofilament line. Verifying his catch as a new record for hook and line action was Donald Reynolds, fish habitat biologist at the Department of Natural Resources' Traverse City field office.

Huls' big fish breaks the hook and line record for brown trout set in May, 1967, when a 19-pound, 3 1/2-ouncer was taken from McCormick Lake in Montmorency County by Danny Lee of Troy, Michigan.

Babe Ruthers Slate Annual Tag Day Drive

The 18th annual Babe Ruth Tag Day will be held on Friday, June 27 and Saturday, June 28, it was announced by league officials of the Babe Ruth baseball program.

Money collected will be used to pay regular season expenses such as umpire fees, insurance, state association dues, national charter assessment, and to purchase safety equipment, uniforms, bats and balls. The money donated by local citizens will also be used to defray expenses involved in traveling to Bessemer next month to participate in the U.P. Babe Ruth Tournament.

Members of the six Babe Ruth teams will conduct a street solicitation, call on homes, visit business places and industrial plants during the day on Friday and Saturday and during shopping hours Friday evening.

All 13, 14, and 15 year old boys playing in the Babe Ruth League are directed to report at the Civic Center on Friday morning at 9:30 to receive station assignments and solicitation areas. Boys must be in full uniform and be prepared to team up with a friend so that all collections can be made by teams of two. Prizes will be awarded to the boys who conduct themselves with the highest degree of courtesy and efficiency.

Babe Ruth officials appreciate the generosity of the citizens who contributed in the past, especially in 1967 when a second campaign was necessary to finance the Escanaba All Stars' trip to Harper Woods, Michigan, to compete in the state tournament.

Claude Osteen of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Ray Sadecki of the San Francisco Giants lost the most games in the National League last season. Each lost 18 times. Osteen gave up the most runs, 109.

Red Hot Astros Extend Winning Streak To Nine

By The Associated Press

If the Houston Astros get any hotter, they'll have to turn up the air conditioning at the Astrodome.

The Astros, playing at their dome home which is cooled by 6,600 tons of air conditioning, edged San Francisco 3-2 Wednesday night and extended their various marks to:

— Nine straight victories, eight of them at home.

— 22 victories in their last 25 games at home.

— 34 victories against 16 defeats since their disastrous April record of 4-20.

In other National League games, Cincinnati handed San Diego its 11th straight defeat 4-0. Chicago defeated Pittsburgh 5-2. Atlanta stepped Los Angeles 5-3. Philadelphia edged New York 6-5 in 10 innings and St. Louis swept Montreal 8-1 and 8-3.

Jim Wynn was the hottest Astro Wednesday night, rapping a two-run homer in the fifth inning that provided the margin of victory.

"This team never gave up on itself, not even when we were 4-20 the first month," said Wynn, who has hit 10 of his 16 homers in the cool Astrodome. "Now we're two games over .500, and I say we've got a chance to win our division."

Atlanta jumped over Los Angeles into first place in the West Division as Hank Aaron snapped a 3-3 tie with his 19th homer in the eighth. The hit made Phil Niekro the majors' first 12-game winner even though the Dodgers battered him for 10 hits.

Philadelphia, without Richie Allen again, stopped the Mets' four-game winning string. Rookie Dave Watkins tied the Mets 5-5 in the eighth with his first major league homer, then tripped in the 10th and scored as John Briggs singled.

Tim McCarver collected four hits and drove in three runs as St. Louis whipped Montreal in the opener of their doubleheader for Bob Gibson's 10th victory against four defeats.

Then in the second game McCarver scored the tie-breaking run on Phil Gagliano's double in the eighth. The Cardinals added four runs in the ninth, one on Lou Brock's homer and three on Mike Shannon's.

Atlanta jumped over Los Angeles into first place in the West Division as Hank Aaron snapped a 3-3 tie with his 19th homer in the eighth. The hit made Phil Niekro the majors' first 12-game winner even though the Dodgers battered him for 10 hits.

In Memoriam

Hogan

In loving memory of our sister, Florence Hogan who passed away one year ago, June 26, 1968.

Often a lonely heartache, And many a silent tear, But always a beautiful memory, Of the one we loved so dear.

Sadly Missed by Edna and Elmer, Nieces and Nephews

Eggert

In loving memory of Julianne Eggert, who passed away one year ago today, June 26, 1968.

Death beckoned her with outstretched hand, And she did not go alone into the Valley that's unknown. She gently took Death by the hand and journeyed to the promised land.

And there, with step so long and gay, She polished the sun by day, and lights the stars that shine at night. And keeps the moonbeams silvery bright.

For Mothers really never die, They just keep house in the sky. And in her heavenly home above, She's waiting to welcome those she loved.

Budget Can't Cover Overtime Pay: Scholle

LANSING (AP) — A state natural resources commissioner warns that some department work could be "seriously hampered" if Gov. William Milliken's budget recommendations for overtime pay are not boosted.

Commissioner August "Gus" Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, made the statement in a letter to Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, and his colleagues.

The committee, meanwhile, reported out a budget bill including nearly $15.8 million for the department, $691,388 less than the House earmarked in its version of that budget bill.

The Senate bill includes $400,000 for overtime pay, the sum recommended by Milliken, said Sen. John Toepf, R-Cadillac.

Scholle said more money would be needed because of a State Civil Service ruling that demands overtime pay for employees, instead of compensatory time off, after July 1.

New Ruling

"For years, many department personnel have worked overtime hours as a matter of course to meet emergency or special conditions," Scholle said. "Overtime worked was liquidated by time off in a later working period."

The new rule, he explained, "provides for the payment at time and one-half for overtime hours worked each day... There is no way to liquidate the overtime other than through payment."

When Civil Service passed the new rule after budget requests had been submitted for 1969-70, the commission notified the Bureau of the Budget of the effect and provided an estimated cost of $634,936, Scholle said.

The figure was based on past experience, he said, and covered emergencies of law enforcement and fire, opening of seasons, Coho fishing, deer hunting, holidays, and research, survey and investigation projects.

The executive budget recommended $400,000.

Hamper Program

"Many of our activities do not lend themselves to an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or other regular shift, five-day-a-week schedule," Scholle said.

"We are fearful that any funds less than the $634,936 requested will seriously hamper natural resources management responsibilities."

Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, said he was "shocked and amazed at the conditions outlined" in Scholle's letter.

"The new rule says in effect, the officers can only put in an eight-hour day, then must be paid time and one-half for all overtime," Young recounted.

"When the money is gone, it will mean after an eight-hour day, there'll be no more law enforcement in the field."

"This is ridiculous," Young said.

Progress Meeting On Lake Erie Clean Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department announced Wednesday the reconvening of a federal-state enforcement conference on Friday to study progress in cleaning up Lake Erie.

The conference Friday is to receive a detailed list of the sources of the nutrients—phosphorous and nitrogen — and plans for removing most of the phosphorous.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel assigned Murray Stein, the department's chief enforcement officer on water pollution, to serve as chairman of the meeting in Cleveland, which will be open to the public.

Participants in the enforcement conference are the Interior Department and the states of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania.

Hickel instructed Carl L. Klein, assistant secretary for water quality and research, "to use the full legal authority of the Department of the Interior in pressing for a successful cleanup of Lake Erie," the announcement said.

SETS SIGHTS on Vietnam — Shown during a national television program in Washington, Sen. J. License Plate Battle Continues

LANSING (AP) — The years-long battle over reflectorized license plates continues in the Senate amid charges and questions about financing the program in Michigan.

Members Wednesday defeated a move by Senate majority leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, to send the license plate bill to the Appropriations Committee for further study. The vote was 11-20.

The measure passed 78-22 in the House earlier this year, remained in position for floor debate and final vote.

The upper chamber was to convene at 2 p.m. today.

Purchase Dies

Appropriations Committee Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, supported Lockwood's move, saying fiscal implications of the bill were unknown.

"It's right here in front of everybody," countered Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, waving a State Administration Department analysis of the bill.

The department reported the program would cost $258,333 more per year than the current, painted-plates program and an additional $70,500 for equipment, DeMaso said. Some $52,000 of the equipment bill was earmarked for embossing dies, he said, adding that he understood the state would have to purchase new dies whether they went to reflectorized plates or not.

Zollar said the only figures available at this point were from "one special interest group." He said later he referred to the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., a prime supplier of the reflectorizing material.

"There are no facts from any other competitive source," Zollar said.

DeMaso maintained he had information from more than one source.

Sending the bill to the Appropriations Committee "could kill it," said Sen. John McCauley, D-Wyandotte.

Adding, Adding

"Similar bills have gone to Appropriations (in past years) and never got a chance on the floor," DeMaso added. "The question is whether you want to save lives or save money."

"It's false to say we would have killed the bill, Zollar retorted after the vote. "We intended to hold hearings on the bill and it would have been put out on its merits."

DeMaso angrily vowed to amend an appropriations bill during floor debate if necessary, to include funds for the program.

"All you do is keep adding and adding and adding," Zollar said. "That makes it awfully rough for you to balance a budget."

DeMaso said the only figures available at this point were from "one special interest group." He said later he referred to the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., a prime supplier of the reflectorizing material.

Senator Calls For Smut Study

LANSING (AP) — Aiming to continue an anti-obscenity drive that appears bogged down in interchamber rivalry, a state senator today called for a special study committee on smut.

Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson, introduced a resolution to authorize creation of a five-member Senate committee to study the manufacture, display, sale and distribution of obscene and pornographic materials.

Fleming sponsored two bills to provide penalties for anyone who displayed or sold pornographic literature to minors.

The Senate passed both bills, but Fleming said he did not expect the House Judiciary Committee to report them for floor action. Committee Chairman J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, confirmed the expectations, saying the lower chamber would await Senate action on a House-passed bill.

GREAT SAVINGS!

That measure, meanwhile, was in the Senate Judiciary Committee, where its sponsor, Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, said he was afraid it may stay. "I'm not optimistic," O'Neill said of his bill, which deals with pornographic material sold to all persons, not just minors.

The Weather Man has given you the biggest break you've ever had ... on summer shoes! All from our regular stock! Without warm, summer weather, we just haven't sold the summer shoes that should have been sold by this time ... Make your selections now! It's the SALE OF THE YEAR ... on shoes you need for all summer! Casual and dress styles!

Fleming's resolution cites "a tremendous increase in the quantity of obscene and pornographic materials available to the people of this state."
